

More than a dozen individuals attended the forum on 2007.11.01 to discuss the incorporation of the AILG. Those present came to a consensus about four changes to the existing documents:

- 1. Added pre-amble. [Policies & Procedures]
 - 2. Added responsibility to publicize committee activities. [Policies & Procedures]
 - 3. Clarify that the AILG represents the collective organization and not members as individual organizations. [Articles]
 - 4. Change in which decisions require 2/3rds approval and which require a majority. [Bylaws]
 - 5. Remove the ability of the Board to revoke membership. [Bylaws, Policies & Procedures]

1. Added pre-amble. [Policies & Procedures]

The AILG is vitally interested in the continuity, individuality, and autonomy of the MIT associated independent residences.

The AILG is self-governing because individual organization behavior affects the whole. At the same time, we recognize the mutual dependence of our community on the success of our individual members.

The AILG is an organization of volunteers. We serve in many capacities, including but not limited to, our roles as advisors, landlords, leaders, and mentors. Professional services and staff are retained, when necessary, to increase the leverage of our volunteers. We strive to foster volunteerism, not replace it.

The AILG promotes excellence in its members by stressing the values of intellectual achievement, social awareness, community involvement, economic integrity, and interdependent living.
